Dear Valued Employees, Customers and Vendors,

Today the Governor of our home state of Wisconsin directed a “Safer at Home” order to combat the spread of COVID-19. Paget Equipment will remain open as we are considered an Essential Business providing service to several Critical Infrastructure Sectors including Chemical, Industrial, Energy, Food and Agriculture, and Water and Wastewater. Our classification as an Essential Business as Critical Trades – Fabricators is defined by the State of Wisconsin Department of Health Services “Emergency Order #12, Safer at Home” para 13(n) through the link: <https://evers.wi.gov/Documents/COVID19/EMO12-SaferAtHome.pdf>

Additionally, we have received assurances from most of our suppliers that they will also remain open during this crisis. We conduct daily risk assessments on our supply base and have business contingency plans should our supply chain be disrupted.

The well-being of our employees, contractors, service representatives, visitors, and other stakeholders is our top priority while we take necessary measures to ensure the continuity of business operations. We will continue to monitor and adhere to the Center for Disease Control (CDC) policies along with other government agencies.

We are grateful for your continued business and assure you our steadfast dedication to support our customers, suppliers and team members during this challenging time.

Sincerely,

James Reigel
Owner – Paget Equipment
